Faucet Aerators

Your faucets may be costing you more money than you think by sending unused heated water right down the drain. These faucet aerators use up to 30 percent less water when compared to standard 2.5 gpm faucets. Less water means less energy and more savings!

Low-Flow Shower Heads

High-quality low-flow shower heads not only use up to 40 percent less energy* than comparable products, they also offer multiple settings and powerful water flow, providing great savings without sacrificing comfort.

Compact Fluorescent Light Bulbs (CFLs)

Ninety percent of the power used to light a traditional incandescent light bulb is wasted on the heat it emits. CFLs, on the other hand, produce the same light output but require 75 percent less electricity. What's more, CFLs last up to 10 times as long as incandescent light bulbs, saving you money in the long run.

*Savings are approximate and will vary with efficiency of heating and water heating system, temperature of incoming and outgoing water, and number of occupants in each unit.
